

Etiquette of the Cell Phone

(Part 1)

- The person whom you are in discussion with has more right over you than the one who is calling you over a cell phone.
- However, should one feel that the call may be urgent to answer, then one should seek permission from the person to answer the call.
- In this instance, one should avoid lengthening the conversation on the cell phone, as this would cause inconvenience and delay to the person.
- Remember, the duty of a true Muslim is not to cause the slightest inconvenience to others!
