

Listening

- One should listen attentively to the person speaking to him/her. If one is in doubt with regards to anything said, clarity should be sought regarding the same in a polite manner. Misunderstandings or misinterpretations are the cause of many evils in our society.
- One should avoid jumping to conclusions and deducing meanings from statements purely on the basis of assumptions. Such assumptions could lead to major breakdowns in relationships and cause ill feelings and hatred.
- If a person is telling you something that you have already heard, under normal circumstances do not cut him off saying that you have already heard this.
- If two people are speaking to each other and you require to speak to one of them, stand at a distance from them and wait so that you do not disturb their discussion.
- Do not participate in futile discussions that are of no benefit in this World or the Hereafter.
